

Federal Judge Orders Black Ledger Returned To the Schultz Defense

Financial Journal of Beer Syndicate With Bank Account Entries Taken Illegally by Attorney James M. Noonan Contends.

A HARD BLOW

Schultz Smiles Broadly at Return of Book Which Was Basis of the Government's Case.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Malone, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—The defense in the income tax evasion trial of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, fledgeling scored a smashing victory today when Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant ordered returned to Schultz the famous black ledger which was the spring-board of the government's case.

Prosecutor John H. Burke had placed on the stand Leonard G. Kierchner, government accountant, to reconcile it with the ledger, a financial journal of the Schultz beer syndicate, with entries in the various Schultz bank accounts.

Then he offered the ledger in evidence. James M. Noonan, defense attorney, leaped to his feet with objections. He contended that the book had been illegally seized by federal agents from the Schultz headquarters at 215 East 149th street, The Bronx.

Judge Bryant agreed with him. Noonan declared that the book was the property of the defendant. "With the first trial in Syracuse the fact that the defendant owned the book was not conceded," said the court.

"In this case I will grant your move to suppress the ledger as evidence."

Transfer of Ledger
"I also ask that the book be returned to the defendant," said Noonan.

So the ledger which has been the basis for the government's case against Schultz, was handed to Noonan. Schultz smiled broadly during the transfer.

The ledger was seized during a raid at the Schultz headquarters on June 22, 1931. Pretty Marguerite Scholl, stenographer at the establishment, directed federal agents to the hiding place of the book.

At the Syracuse trial, which ended in jury disagreement, the book was employed by the government to draw together the loose ends of its argument that Schultz evaded payment of $22,000 income taxes on $480,000 netted during the years 1929, 1930 and 1931.

Kierchner dove-tailed the bank accounts and the items in the ledger.

Checks Offered
The government opened its case today by offering for examination bundles of checks which peaky proprietors paid the Schultz beer syndicate during the prohibition era.

The checks went into evidence thusly:

"I offer in evidence checks drawn by (name of peaky proprietor) to the order of (alias of a Schultz associate) given in payment for beer, deposited in the account of (one of the disguised Schultz associates), John H. Burke, assistant district attorney would say."

Noonan objected to the introduction of the checks, but was unsuccessful.

Contrary to his usual somber dress, Schultz entered the courtroom today in a gay striped brown suit. Only about two dozen spectators were in the courtroom, it being cold and drizzling weather.

Police Testifies
Julius Salke, New York city policeman, was called to the stand to tell of the shooting and killing of Danny Iamascia, Harlem underworld figure and partner in Schultz enterprises. Iamascia was killed and Schultz arrested on June 18, 1931, in front of 1212 Fifth avenue.

Q. Did you meet him in 1931?
A. I did. On June 18, 1931, at 102nd street and Fifth avenue.

Salke testified that he and another officer, Stephen De Rosa, had Schultz under observation "because there was a beer war going on at the time between the Colli and Schultz gangs."

"Describe what took place," prompted Burke.

Schultz kept his eyes lowered when Salke testified.

"The defendant had a gun in his hand. He ran and I followed him. He put his hands up."

"What did he say to you?"
"He said 'Listen, let me run—I've got a large sum of money.'"

Salke said he later learned Schultz had $18,643 and a small note book on his person.

Schultz was taken to police headquarters, the witness continued, and there again tried to bargain with the police for his release.

"I'll make it worth your while if you spring me," Salke quoted Schultz as pleading.

"I'm in a tough spot," Salke said. Schultz identified his slain associate.

"It's poor Danny," Salke said, according to Salke.

Going back to actual apprehension of the defendant Salke said that Schultz had an automatic pistol in his hand.

"He threw it in the street and started to run," said the witness.

Mrs. Evelyn Smith Held for Murder

MRS. EVELYN B. SMITH.

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty today awaited the return of Mrs. Evelyn Smith from New York to test his theory that when she faces Mrs. Blanche Dunkel he will get the full story of the slaying of Ervin Lang.

Dougherty said he expected Mrs. Smith here tonight if she continues willing to return voluntarily. A legal technician barred her removal from New York yesterday and the two Chicago officers flew there to arrange her return.

Mrs. Smith was quoted in New York as denying all knowledge of the slaying and expressing the belief that Mrs. Dunkel did it.

Mrs. Dunkel was questioned yesterday by Dougherty, who said she held to her earlier story that she promised Mrs. Smith $500 to kill Lang and later Mrs. Smith reported the job finished and collected $100.

Mrs. Dunkel denied a further accusation reported made by Mrs. Smith. Dougherty said, that she probably caused the death of her daughter, Mallie, Lang's wife. Mrs. Lang died December 1.

Seek Permission to Exhume Silba's Body

Friends of John, "Joe the Portuguese" Silba, alias Martins, Rossel and Alvis, have requested local authorities to permit the body to be exhumed and taken to New York for burial. Application for permission to move the body was made to Coroner Leaton DuBois. Recently Justo Antonio de 520 Greenwich street came to Ulster county and asked that the body be taken up.

What action will be taken has not been determined as the investigation into Silba's death is still being continued. Silba was found in the Hudson river on July 13 with a wound on his head and the body wrapped in canvas and weighted down.

Investigations disclose that he was engaged in a hijacking career, specializing in the kidnapping of members of a gang in hijacking trucks.

Friends of Silba claim he was born in Portugal in 1903 and that his correct name is Manuel Martins, a name which he gave when arrested at one time in New York. Whether his correct name is Martins or Alvis the authorities are in doubt about.

Among his pals he was known as "Joe the Portuguese."

Mary Figueroa, held as a material witness, is still in the Ulster county jail. A check-up is being made by detectives in New York as to his various activities in the past few months in an effort to learn if possible who might be responsible for his death.

Mentioned for President.

San Francisco, July 29 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher who has been mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1936, will be the guest of honor tonight at a Union League Club banquet.

Colonel Knox was a week-end guest of former President Herbert Hoover, who also will attend the dinner.

Among the nationally-known Republicans who have been invited to Mr. Hoover's dinner are: Sen. Charles McNary, ex-Secretary of War Patrick Hurley and James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, a former United States solicitor general.

Senate to Appoint to Abolish

London, July 29 (AP)—An authoritative source said today that Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations Affairs, has been instructed to make a personal appeal to Baron Pompeo Aloisi, the Italian delegate to the League, for an alteration of Italy's attitude toward Ethiopia.

His discussion with Baron Aloisi is expected to take place before the League council session opens Wednesday in Geneva, and is also expected to precede a private three-power discussion between Eden, Aloisi, and Premier Benito Mussolini.

The League of Nations is preparing for a council session Wednesday at which attempts to settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute by arbitration will be considered.

Emperor Haile Selassie's request for only this phase of the controversy to be discussed was considered a major concession, for Ethiopia had the right to invoke article 15 of the covenant, under which the council eventually would have had to make recommendation for a settlement.

Italy wants the adjourned conciliation commission to concern itself only with frontier incidents which Ethiopia wants a decision on international boundaries.

The Italian government prepared to state its case to the League and the British government, hopeful of peace, planned 11th-hour measures to avert war.

The Ethiopian government established a national Red Cross.

Both British and Italian government sources said they were unaware of a clash between Italians and Ethiopians at Waluk (Walkait), as reported in a London newspaper.

The report said 40 Italians and 20 Ethiopians had been killed and an Italian spokesman said it was highly unlikely such an incident could have occurred without the government at Rome being informed.

Mussolini's 52nd Birthday

Rome, July 29 (AP)—Premier Mussolini celebrated his 52nd birthday today by ordering seven experts off to Geneva for a League of Nations Council session which will deal with Italy's dispute with Ethiopia.

Six members of the Italian delegation will start for Switzerland tonight. Their chief, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, will leave tomorrow.

In announcing the departure of the delegation, which is virtually the same which sat in the meeting at Geneva May 25, when arrangements were made for Wednesday's session, a government spokesman said that the dispatch of the delegation once again proved that Italy wishes to do everything possible to remain within the framework of the League in her quarrel with Ethiopia.

He re-emphasized that Italy expected the Council conversation to be called along the lines of the Italian note of acceptance of the Council's conciliation commission.

He said, however, that the Italian delegation had been given only general instructions, and that any modification of the Italian attitude would have to depend on the developments by the Council itself.

The spokesman said the government today requested its minister to Addis Ababa and the high commissariat at Asmara to clarify reports of an incident published in a London newspaper as a dispatch from Addis Ababa.

Clash Reported

The London report stated that 40 Italians and 20 Ethiopians were killed in an attack by Ethiopians against an Italian military post at Walkait (Wolkait) several weeks ago. The attack was reported as having occurred after the Italians had diverted from its course a stream passing through the town.

The spokesman said the Italian government doubted the authenticity of the casualty report, inasmuch as an incident of such a serious nature would have been reported to the government long before this.

Fulvio Suvich, under secretary for foreign affairs, flew to Rome from Carimate after a conference with Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Rome.

Diplomatic circles expressed the view that no concrete result had come from Suvich's conversations with Britain's ambassador.

It was understood the Geneva meeting might be subject to decisions reached at the conversations between Sir Eric and the Italian foreign under secretary.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia of Milan, said Italy's historic hour has come, bringing with it "life or death." Now or never for the nation.

The newspaper said Fascist Italy "under a prodigious superhuman tension feels its historic hour."

The Italian people have but one preoccupation: duty and that is to obey and march on—if necessary against everything and against everyone."

Tension In Germany Is Relieved By Visit Of Von Blomberg To Hitler

Order Issued That Non-Aryans, May Be Taken Into Active Service of Nazi Army, Navy and Air Forces.

SOME EXCEPTIONS

Move Under Way That May Liquidate Nazi Conflict With Jews, Catholics and "Steel Helmets."

Berlin, July 29 (AP)—The tension among Jews, Roman Catholics and the World War veterans of the "Steel Helmet" was considerably eased today by the news of a "social" visit of Gen. Werner von Blomberg to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Von Blomberg, minister of war, called on Der Fuehrer in the latter's Bavarian mountain home.

The general feeling prevailed in political circles that Von Blomberg had pointed out to Hitler the international impression created by the drastic measures in the last fortnight against "political Catholics" and the Steel Helmet and by the personal attacks upon Jews.

Von Blomberg and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, are understood to be the two men who chiefly press their energies toward moderation with the assistance of the foreign office.

That Von Blomberg's efforts are not without success is indicated by a decree issued today under the caption "An order concerning the admission of non-Aryans to active military service."

It was signed by Von Blomberg and Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, and, at least theoretically, makes possible the taking of non-Aryans into the army, navy and air force.

The decree was regarded as the first breach in the war against non-Aryans. It admits the possibility of accepting non-Aryans to active military service when such men have only two Jewish grandparents.

The decree lays down for the military force the same definition for a non-Aryan as is already contained in the law respecting public officials. In other words, any one with at least one of his four grandparents of non-Aryan origin is regarded as non-Aryan.

Exceptions May Be Made

However, under the decree, exceptions may be made if applicants have "not more than two complete non-Aryan, especially Jewish, grandparents."

This means, for instance, that a young man whose father is an Aryan and whose mother had Jewish parents may apply for admission to the army, navy, or air force with hope of success.

The decree stipulates: "Persons, both of whose parents have Jewish blood, or who have three Jewish grandparents, will not be drafted for active service. Insofar as they pass muster, they are, without exception, assigned to the Ersatz (reserve) No. 2."

The muster takes place in respect of the race to which a person belongs."

A non-Aryan, in whose favor an exception may be made by the new decree, will, after passing muster, be informed he is considered fit for service. But he will first automatically be assigned to Reserve No. 2. It is then up to him to apply for admission to active service within two weeks.

Developments in Drive

Persistent rumors circulated today that Heinrich Himmler, chief of the secret police and dominant figure during the 1934 Nazi "blood purge," would replace Wilhelm Frick as minister of the interior.

It was generally considered that such an appointment would mean a definite liquidation of the Nazi conflict with Jews, "political Catholics" and "reactionary" war veterans in a radical way.

Other developments in Nazism's drive on its "enemies" were:

1. Victims in several parts of the country, defying government orders against reference to politics, ordered daily prayers for "freedom of conscience."

2. Officials announced that "racial Jews and Aryan girls were sent to concentration camps at Dachau for alleged 'racial violation.'"

3. Munich police announced they

Walter Raczkowski, 13 Drowns at Spring Lake After Ride Down Chute

Walter John Raczkowski of 407 Delaware avenue, 13-year-old son of Walter and Mary Kaczor Raczkowski, lost his life Saturday afternoon at Spring Lake on Lucas avenue extension, where he drowned after going down a sliding board.

According to other youngsters with whom he went to the lake, the Raczkowski boy apparently struck his head when he went into the water and lost consciousness. His distress was noticed by lifeguards at the resort, Robert Everett, Edward Ford and Frank Ostrander, and they went to his rescue.

In about three minutes, the guards recovered young Raczkowski's body and took it to the diving platform where methods of artificial respiration were tried. He failed to respond to this and to treatment with the inhalator from the central fire station, which was used for about an hour.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, and firemen Sanford, LaTour and DeWitt Bailey of 241 West Chester street, an employee of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, was also at the scene with that firm's inhalator.

Coroner N. R. Lasher of Saugerties, who had been called, conducted an investigation and then ordered an autopsy to determine the cause of death. This was done by Dr. Lehner, Dr. LePevre and Dr. Johnston at the Kingston Hospital to which institution the body was removed in the W. N. Conner ambulance.

The autopsy revealed the boy died of drowning, the lungs having been filled with water, and not from a head injury. However, there was a cut where he struck his head as he ended his ride down the chute.

Besides his father, who is Democratic committeeman of the Fourth Ward, and his mother, young Raczkowski is survived by two sisters, Evelyn and Agnes, and three brothers, John, Robert and Adelbert.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from his late home, thence to Immaculate Conception Church where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in the family plot in Calvary cemetery.

Schilling Stock Sold Here Today

John M. Cashin, trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings involving the Schilling Furniture Company, Inc., of Kingston, and Judge Walter J. Miller, referee in bankruptcy, held a brief joint court this morning at the supervisors' chambers in the court house. Judge Miller's part in the proceedings was very brief. A sale of the personal property at the plant on Deyo street together with accounts receivable amounting to about $2,600 were to be sold.

There was an order to show cause returnable before Judge Miller at 10:30 o'clock. This was an order to show cause why the advertised goods and receivable accounts should not be sold to Francis J. Schilling for the sum of $1,275 which he had submitted. When the time came there was a goodly attendance and it was immediately stated that there would be a higher bid. At this point Judge Miller withdrew and left the sale up to the trustee, John M. Cashin.

Mr. Cashin and his attorney, Charles de la Verne, then placed the inventory of personal property and the accounts receivable up together as one parcel and the highest bid was $1,550 made by Leopold Willard of 175 Fifth avenue, New York city.

The property was then divided into two parcels and the stock and equipment was first put, Mr. Levey, of 114 West 44th street, New York, bid $1,025. The accounts receivable, amounting to about $2,600, were then put up for sale and after some bidding Mr. Levey also put $34,167.67, net balance, $1,381,444, brought the total amount under the parcel sale to $1,475 and that being higher than the bulk bid of $1,550 for the stock was struck off to Mr. Levey, subject to confirmation by the court.

Trustee Cashin stated that the terms of the sale were 10 per cent at the time of the sale, by cash or certified check, and the balance within 24 hours. The successful bidder would have a week to move the equipment and stock out of the building.

The accounts receivable numbered 27 and totaled slightly over the $2,600.

PWA Jobs to Last Until 4-Billion Program Starts

Washington, July 29, (AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today that nearly $1,800,000,000 of PWA projects are under construction and "will furnish employment in the interim before the $1,000,000,000 work relief program reaches its peak."

These projects are being carried on with funds appropriated prior to the $4,000,000,000 with which the administration says it plans to put 3,500,000 persons to work. The men employed on them will not be counted toward the 3,500,000 total officials said.

There are other Public Works funds in the $4,000,000,000 and Ickes urged states and communities today to rush their applications for them.

In addition to the 4,511 projects now under construction, 13,238, involving expenditure of $685,421,693, have been completed in the two years of PWA, Ickes said. Construction has not been begun on 1,426 others which are to cost $321,026,255.

Mark Bacharach Died Suddenly Early Today

Widely Known Business Man and Member of the Board of Fire Commissioners Died at His Home on Hone Street After a Brief Illness—Funeral on Wednesday.

Fire Commissioner Mark Bacharach, well known business man of Kingston, died suddenly early this morning at his home, 19 Hone street, after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in the family plot in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Mr. Bacharach for a number of years has been engaged in the storage warehouse business. He purchased the former car barn of the old Colonial trolley road on Smith avenue, and made a number of alterations and changes in the building. The car barn was not used for housing the cars of the old trolley line after it was taken over and absorbed by the Kingston City trolley road.

Mr. Bacharach used the building for storage purposes and renamed it the Smith Avenue Storage Warehouse, under which name he carried on his business.

For years Mr. Bacharach was an active member of the Cornell Hose Company and he was also a member of the Exempt Fireman's Association of this city. Always deeply interested in local fireman matters, he has appointed a member of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and his experience as both a volunteer fireman and as an active business man proved of value to the board of which he was a member.

Mr. Bacharach was widely known throughout the city and vicinity. He was a man of genial personality and made friends easily. There were few men in Kingston who were more deeply interested in fireman matters, and aside from his business he devoted considerable time and thought to the activities of both the paid and volunteer firemen.

At the banquet last Thursday evening at the Kirkland when the Kingston firemen entertained the members of the Poughkeepsie fire department it was announced that Mr. Bacharach had been elected to the board of fire commissioners.

In the death of Mr. Bacharach the fire department has lost an interested friend while the city has sustained the loss of a man of keen business ability.

Mr. Bacharach is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Rose Kingsley and Miss Lillian Bacharach, and a brother, Abram, all of this city, and also several nephews and nieces.

Congressmen Busy Napping

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Several congressmen dealt with indolence today that their wives are napping them to go home. They bristled at a Washington columnist's assertion that two mighty forces were driving them toward adjournment—indolence and the sinking of "summer bacchanals" or the importance of decorated but sleeping wives and daughters. "Dressed foolishly where do they get that stuff?" demanded Representative Sam Rayburn of New York, who has had a wife and daughter. "Napping—I never heard of it."

Eye Witnesses Declare The Three Girls Stepped Under the Lowered Gates Onto the Tracks.

Two girls were killed and one escaped injury shortly before 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon when they ran in the path of a West Shore railroad passenger train at the Gage street crossing. The crossing gates were down as a switch engine was at work near the crossing and the girls stood just inside the crossing gates and as the switch engine halted the three girls ran out from behind it and into the passenger train. The third girl, who escaped injury, jumped clear of the train, but the other two ran head-on into the passenger engine and were hurled some distance. One girl was killed instantly and the other died on the way to the Kingston Hospital.

Republicans Elect Delegates to Attend A County Convention

Caucuses were held throughout Ulster county Saturday night, including the city of Kingston, to elect three delegates from each election district in the county to attend a Republican county convention to be held at the Municipal Auditorium, Kingston, Saturday, August 3, at 11 a. m.

The convention will recommend to the enrolled Republicans of the county candidates for nomination for the offices of member of assembly, sheriff, coroner, delegates to the Republican judicial convention and members of the Republican county central committee.

There was little if any excitement reported at any of the district caucuses. The chief interest so far has been in the question as to who would be the Republican standard bearer for the office of sheriff and a quiet but spirited campaign has been carried on for the past few weeks to secure favorable delegations, although apparently activity has been confined largely to district leaders with little attempt to fight for individual delegates. The leading candidates in the field are former Coroner W. N. Conner, Deputy Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux, Supervisor James L. Rowe of the Second Ward and Supervisor Clarence T. Voss of Phoenixia.

HEART

trouble, in its many forms, can be corrected, in most cases, by Chiropractic.

Pressure (due to misaligned vertebrae) on the nerves supplying this mighty pump of the body prevents it from getting enough power from the brain to do its work. Weakness follows and disease is the result.

Chiropractic

scientifically relieves this nerve pressure and the heart regains strength.

Taxes and Lobbying Are The Prime Subjects For Discussion By Congress

Republicans Say $270,000,000 To Be Raised Is Tiny Compared To Expenditures and Want Later Consideration.

TAX PLAN A "HOAX"

Democrats Want Immediate Passage To Help President and Pay Off Piled-up Debts.

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Congress swung back into the work routine today, with taxes and lobbying the prime subjects for discussion.

Committee work furnished the big news for the time being, for Senate and House were busy on minor or regional legislation.

The Senate lobby committee continued its investigation into the power companies' struggle to defeat the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill, and the House ways and means committee pushed ahead with the tax program.

Senator Van Den Berg (R-Mich.) called the tax plan a "hoax" and demanded consideration of the subject be postponed until next winter. Senator Hastings (R-Del.) sought consideration of his resolution to adjourn August 10 before the tax bill can be passed. There was little chance of the resolution's success, in the opinion of the Democrats.

Republicans argue that the amount to be raised by the new tax bill—the estimate of Democratic committee—is $270,000,000—is tiny compared to federal expenditures. They want taxes considered later in connection with the subject of economy and budget-balancing.

Two-Fold Purpose

The Democrats hold that there is a two-fold need for passage: First, to show the President's sincerity in advocating the legislation, and second, they argue that business is better and the time has arrived to think about paying off the piled-up debt.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the House Committee moved to introduce the bill today and lay it before the whole committee. The important change in the tentative draft was the announcement that increases would be sought in surtax rates on incomes of more than $50,000. The original figure was $150,000.

The Senate Lobby Committee investigators still sought H. C. Hopson, vice president of the Associated Gas and Electric Company, as the inquiry into the company's opposition to the Utility Bill went ahead. Other officials of the company were available and the possibility was expressed that the Department of Justice would be asked to help find Hopson.

"Best Headlines" Promised
The House Rules Committee resumes its investigation of lobbying tomorrow, with a promise by committee counsel of "the best headlines thus far in the investigation."

The Senate Finance Committee continued its hearings on the new alcohol control measure. Lester Barlow, a lock design engineer who charged Saturday that the National Distillers Corporation was "heat of a bootleg ring," said he would welcome a citation for contempt of the Senate. Senator Clark (D-Mo.) had asked that he be cited on the ground he would not answer questions about "proof" of his charges.

In a letter to Clark the engineer said he would risk his liberty "in an attempt to initiate a wide exposure of the liquor racket."

The committee is considering a provision to permit bulk sales of liquor. Barlow said "the glass industry don't want it," adding that the industry "is in the hands of a bootleg ring."

No official comment was forthcoming on the demand of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the United States take "appropriate action" to halt what he described as "fendish persecution" in Germany. Green said "the time has arrived when Germany should be boycotted."

Changes at National Ulster County Bank

Patrons who called at the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston this morning found considerable change in the interior over the weekend. In order not to endanger patrons and employees of the bank workmen worked Saturday afternoon and Sunday installing the heavy steel girders which support the second floor which is being placed in the banking house. The girders were placed in position, floor timbers were laid and the flooring was put in and this morning when the bank opened the interior presented a far different appearance than on Saturday when the bank closed for business.

Work will be completed in time for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to occupy the entire second floor by October first.

Due to the fact that the bank must continue to operate while alterations to the building are going on, much of the work in the bank will be done after banking hours and while the bank is closed in order not to disturb the employees.

Republicans Will Caucus Tonight

Republican caucuses will be held at the various polling places in the city this evening for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the Republican city convention to be held at the Municipal Auditorium on Monday, August 3.

Dear Sir:
We are in need of some furniture in order to bring our recreation hall to the standard we have set for it. As you know, the Civilian Conservation Corps is a welfare proposition, with no funds available for welfare. Would it be possible for you to place an appeal with your readers? I am sure that there are many citizens in your area who have some of the items we need, and who would be glad to get them out of their way at no expense to them. We will gladly call for any goods donated to us. Many of the boys in this company are from your community and the immediate vicinity. It would be helping us to make life more comfortable for them, and making better citizens out of them.

Some of the items we could use are a piano, phonograph, tables, chairs, benches, reading lamps, pictures, rugs, sofas, easy chairs, any old music, musical instruments, etc. We will send a truck to transport the materials as soon as we receive word that we can secure them.

Gratefully yours,

Mrs. Irene Hollstein Found Dead in Home

Death Was Due to Heart Block Caused by Acute Indigestion—Mrs. Hollstein For Years Was Active in Local Fraternal Circles—Found Dead by Friends Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Irene S. Hollstein, wife of the late Edgar A. Hollstein, a former plumbing inspector of the Board of Health, was found dead in her home, 276 North Manor avenue, by Mrs. Irvin McCausland of West Pierpont street, about 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The cause of death was heart block due to acute indigestion.

Mrs. Hollstein since the death of her husband and mother, Mrs. Philip Schuster, resided alone in the residence which she and her husband erected on North Manor avenue some years ago. Saturday evening she had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin McCausland at their home on West Pierpont street, and that evening they had taken her home at about 10:30 o'clock, after making arrangements to call for her Sunday morning to go with them on a picnic.

About 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning Mrs. McCausland called Mrs. Hollstein on the telephone but no one answered, and becoming worried, Mrs. McCausland and her husband motored to the Hollstein residence. They rang the bell but received no response. Mr. McCausland then went around the house and finding a side window unlocked he raised the sash and climbed into the house and then admitted his wife by unlocking the front door.

Mrs. McCausland went upstairs and was horrified to find Mrs. Hollstein slumped down on the floor at the far end of the upper hall. She rushed to her side and found that Mrs. Hollstein was dead. Dr. Frank A. Johnston was called and after an examination gave as his opinion that death was due to an attack of acute indigestion. Coroner Lester DuBois of New Paltz, who was also called, concurred in the opinion of Dr. Johnston and directed that the body be turned over to the undertaking firm of Jensen & Deegan for funeral arrangements.

It is apparent, judging from the investigation made by Sergeant Charles Phinney of the police department, who had been notified by Dr. Johnston of Mrs. Hollstein's sudden death, that she had been seized with a severe attack of indigestion after arising from her bed Sunday morning. She had made up her bed and slipped when seized with the attack had climbed on a dress and started to go downstairs when fatally stricken.

Mrs. Hollstein was a daughter of the late Philip and Elizabeth Schrader Schuster. Her husband died several years ago. The Schusters for years conducted a tobacco store on East Strand and during the lifetime of Mr. Schuster he specialized in handmade cigars. Following his death a number of years was carried on for Mrs. Hollstein for many years had been active in the fraternal life of the city. She was a past worthy matron of Kingston Chapter, No. 155, Order of the Eastern Star, and a past district deputy of the Mystic Court of the Amaranth. For years she had been active in the councils of the Eastern Star and also the Order of the Amaranth.

She had been a member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street for a number of years. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Occupants of Cars Have Narrow Escape

What might have resulted in a very serious accident turned out well for the occupants of two cars traveling south on route 9-W Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Traffic was exceptionally heavy at that hour as Wilhelmina McCue of 559 West 156th street, New York, came south in a Ford car. She evidently intended to turn into the Flatbush road but missed it and continued down the road a short distance. Then she pulled to the right of the road and without allowing time for traffic behind her to clear she pulled to the center and started to turn around and return to the Flatbush road.

Unfortunately at that time a Chevrolet sedan of Anna Lombardo of 1433 31st street, Astoria, L. I., and driven by Joseph Muscara of 1431 31st street, Astoria, L. I., was coming south behind the McCue car. The two came together and both cars were damaged although none of the occupants was injured.

The Chevrolet suffered a damaged front fender and a bent axle while the Ford had a fender damaged and a front spring shackle broken. Both were towed to Saugerties.

Traffic was very heavy and Sergeant James Cunningham and Trooper McLennan were called to investigate the accident and to keep traffic moving.

Dies When Well Caves In.

Matt Luck, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—The body of Richard Hohnicki, 44, lay buried today at the bottom of a caved-in well where for 24 hours rescuers worked fruitlessly to reach him. Hohnicki was caught at the bottom of the 20-foot shaft he had dug when the ground collapsed Saturday night. Firemen and others dug all through the night and all day yesterday in the hope Hohnicki was still alive, but when they finally reached him last night he was dead. Before his body could be removed a new collapse of earth buried it again. Earlier in the day a wooden shaft sunk by rescue workers collapsed and three men narrowly escaped being buried. Hohnicki, a Brooklyn truck driver, was digging the well at his Long Island summer home when the collapse occurred.

Song of the Frog.

I will admit the pond-frog
Is no celestial bard,
Yet his croaking
Does not come to me
As quite the raucous discord
Some folks think it to be.
And in the evening's stillness,
Seated on a garden wall,
Sometimes I listen long
To his plaintive call.
He does not seek to ape
The voice of other things,
In his own language and way
He is content to sing, or pray,
And somehow, I think
God approves, and doesn't Cover His ears up tight
Against the song of a pond-frog
On a warm summer night.

Teacher (in CCC camp)—When we have everything in common and your business is everybody's business, what is it called?
Student—It is usually called gossip.

Many a fellow who helps and clamors for a square deal merely wants all of the aces.

Judge—You say you have known his man all your life. Now, do you think he would be guilty of stealing this money?
Witness—How much was it?

There's just one trouble about having a nice time as we go along through life. For most of us it's too expensive.

Man—I'm going to prune those apple trees.
Wife—But, Frank, you know I don't care for prunes.

Most of us flatter strangers and insult friends. . . . Nearly all the knowledge in the world has been acquired at the expense of somebody's burnt fingers. . . . A Frenchman was relating his experience of studying the English language. He said:
"When I first discovered that if I was quick, I was fast; that if I tried I was fast; if I spent too freely I was fast and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged. But when I came across the sentence: 'The first one won one one-dollar prize' I gave up trying to learn the English language."

Correct this sentence: "He has four college degrees," said the man. "So he is qualified to instruct business men."

Sonny—Why are a lot of men bald-headed, daddy? Is it caused by hats?
Daddy—Yes, son; by their wives' hats.

Nearly every man with a voice like a frog has longed to sing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" in a manner satisfactory to a great audience.

That's what made our head ache the next day!

No More Ghost Towns in New York

"Ghost towns" so called because of their wraith-like resemblance of their former proportions henceforth will be largely prevented in New York state if the program contemplated in the plan for the future administration of the idle land and marginal land in New York is eventually worked out, says the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

Every traveler remembers seeing those "ghost towns" as they are quite numerous in New York state, although more frequently encountered in some of the western states. The abandoned homes, barns and factories reduced to debris, crumbling stone walls and empty window frames at the passerby eloquent stare at the desolation by the people who once inhabited them and who found their livelihood principally through employment afforded by some forest industry.

Nine million acres of forest land to be owned by the State and virtually half of that administered as commercial forests for the production of timber is the plan for the future in New York. Such a forest will bring about the reduction of these squalid communities or the redemption of them, never again to decline or pass from the field of active, prosperous communities. They will have industries founded on a permanent basis because back of them will be permanently producing forests. More than four million acres of producing forests should give constant employment to approximately one hundred thousand men and supply materials which elsewhere indirectly would bring employment to thousands more.

HOLLYWOOD
SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood is always trying its best for new stars, and now Hollywood is making pictures that can make new stars.

Almost any good picture can "uncover" star material, but there are certain famous stories which, by their very popularity, have a ready-made audience. Whether by design or otherwise, Hollywood seems to be giving "unknowns" the chance to become stars in these pictures.

It is definitely by design that Universal is seeking an unknown to play the role of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Carl Laemmle, recalling what the part did for Lon Chaney when he made the picture in 1923, believes the same role can work the same miracle in 1935. The studio is making tests here and abroad, giving hope to all those scores of Chaney-imitators who year after year send their photographs—usually in Chaney make-ups—to all the studios.

A 'Captain Blood' Needed

For "Captain Blood" Warner Bros. is keeping the test cameras busy. They wanted Robert Donat for the Rafael Sabatini hero, but Donat appeared in the English courts and won his freedom to remain in England for the time. Other possibilities, including Leslie Howard and Fredric March, are unavailable, and that leaves the gates open for an "unknown." Tests of Errol Flynn, Irish actor under contract to the studio but until recently given little attention, have looked promising, and should he win the role it is virtually certain that another star will be made. Flynn is the recent bridegroom of Lily Damick.

"The Three Musketeers" at R-K-O has as D'Artagnan the stage actor Walter Abel, unknown in the movie world at large although he has a stage reputation. Abel won the part in tests, but first Francis Lederer and then Brian Aherne, Lederer withdrew, and Aherne was needed at his Metro home—so opportunity pounded at Abel's door.

Audience Recalls When—

Although a big star name in addition to the story title is supposed to enhance the draw, there are some who see in the casting of an unknown a decided advantage. These point out that when a recognized star undertakes a role, he is somewhat handicapped by the audience's memories of his previous work. His "hunchback" or his Captain Blood or his D'Artagnan may be excellent but some in the audience will remember, perhaps subconsciously, that here is an actor playing a role, that here is an actor playing a role. An unknown, doing a D'Artagnan or a Captain Blood, can be accepted more readily as being, rather than acting, the character.

We make athletics a fine art, and its finest form is fancy diving.

Today

Broadway: "Doubting Thomas." Will Rogers, a successful combination of actor, radio star, columnist, sage, airplane enthusiast and staunch Democrat, scratches his head and throws off numerous quips during the progress of his latest movie, and strengthened by an excellent cast of supporting players plus the able direction of David Butler, this show is alive with gaiety, satire, romance and laughter. It tells of a wife who falls under the spell of the stage and of a husband who does his best to avert disaster. Mr. Rogers was never more at ease before a camera than in this show, and some of his lines are exceptionally good. The skill of Billie Burke, Alison Skipworth, Sterling Holloway, Frances Grant and Gail Patrick adds much to the play's success. Amusing and well done entertainment.

Orpheum: "Private Worlds." For originality and merit, this show strikes a new high in motion picture possibilities. Laid in a hospital whose specialty is caring for minds warped out of focus, it tells of the lives of the doctors, both men and women, who seek to bring their patients back into the realm of reason. But especially, it tells of a woman doctor who has sacrificed romance for service and how she finds it where she least expects it. The whole film is carefully done and the acting is superb. It is one of the hit pictures of the year with Charles Boyer, Claudette Colbert and Joan Bennett at their best.

Kingston: "Alibi Ike." Some time ago, the famous Ring Lardner created a fiction character that brought out the frailty in man's makeup. It was done in a humorous and satirical vein, and this character became beloved for his failings. To transpose such an individual to the screen without losing his personality was seemingly impossible. But it has been done nevertheless, and "Alibi Ike" becomes one of the screen's most enjoyable achievements with Joe E. Brown outdoing himself in the title role. It is Mr. Brown's best comedy venture, with sparkling lines and laugh getting situations, as it tells of a ball player, a good one too, who has an alibi for everything he does or says. Win, lose or draw. Alibi Ike must expand on his performance, whether on the ball field or off. Through the genius of Ring Lardner, Alibi Ike becomes almost a symbol of human failings, and the more understandable through the pleasurable method of laughter. Grand entertainment. Don't miss.

Large Crowd Watches Swimming Stars At Williams Lake Meet; Friesel Lowers World Record

Some of the fastest swimmers in the world thrilled a gala crowd of approximately 2,000 fans at Williams Lake Sunday afternoon with a magnificent exhibition of speed swimming and fancy diving in which the world's record for the 100-yard breast stroke was unofficially lowered by Paul Friesel of the St. George Dragon Club, Brooklyn. Friesel took this event in the fast time of 1 minute, seven and one-fifth seconds was 2-5 of a second faster than the recognized mark which is officially on the A. A. U. books.

The program consisted of sprints, exhibitions, fancy diving and a comedy skit. Some of the world's most famous speedsters were on hand including the internationally known Spence brothers, Walter, Wallace and Leonard. The high board diving experts present were Len Carney of the Dragon Club, Johnny Zahonick, Metropolitan Senior champion, and Ed Milton of New York.

In the first event of 50 yards, free style, Walter Spence led his nearest competitor to the finish by three feet in the fast time of 24 and 2-5 seconds.

The second event saw Len Spence give an exhibition race against time in the 300 yard medley. He covered the distance in 1:42.2.

The 200 yard free style race followed in which the Spence brothers were absent. Fred Brandt of the Dragon Club defeated two of his club mates in 2:13. Andersen and Beech followed him across the line.

Johnny Wicklun took the 100 yard back stroke in 1:03.4 beating Bill Neunzig by two seconds.

In the fifth event, 100 yards free style, Walter Spence again showed his heels to the entire field touching the finish line in 54.4.

It was in the sixth race that Friesel lowered the world mark in the breast stroke. There were four competitors in the race. Friesel and two others used the newly recognized "butterfly stroke" while the fourth swimmer used the more orthodox, under water stroke.

In the former stroke the recovery is made above the water, and although this style of swimming is comparatively new it has proven very popular with the faster swimmers. The breaking of the world record yesterday proved its worth.

Fancy diving exhibitions followed the races and the large crowd roundly applauded the efforts of Zahonick, Carney and Milton. Some beautiful and difficult dives were executed from the 10 foot board and 30 foot tower. Carney's one-and-a-half from the tower was probably the most popular and breathtaking dive of the afternoon.

A comedy diving and life saving skit by Friesel and Zahonick wound up the program.

Mt Tremper Scores Over Vacationists

Founding Sheridan and Durke for 18 tallies, the Mt. Tremper Sportsman's Association nine trounced the Vacationists Sunday afternoon at Mt. Tremper, by the tune of 12-4.

Eddie Scherer was on the mound for the winners and allowed but seven hits.

At the end of the fourth frame the score was tied at three all. In the next three frames the Association "team" went to town with a nine run barrage which put the game on ice. Bill Hanley and Tom Lamb helped the cause along with four and three hits respectively.

Smoke Eaters Will Be Here Tuesday Night At the Fair Grounds

Everything is set for the big soft ball contest to be staged at the Kingston Fair Grounds at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night when the Bridge City fire department will send its picked soft ball players here to battle with the members of the Kingston Paid Firemen's Association. The proceeds are to be used towards helping defray expenses to be incurred in entertaining the state firemen here next year.

Mayor C. J. Heiseleman, if able to return from a brief vacation he is spending at Cape Cod, will cover first base for the local firemen, and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston department and Fire Chief Chris Noll of the Poughkeepsie department, are expected to each toss them over—the soft ball, not the chiefs—for an inning.

Watching the mayor and the two fire chiefs in action is alone worth the price of admission to the game.

Manager Edward Gillen and Captain Fred LaTour state that their boys are in tip top form and ready for the Battle of the Century. The game Tuesday night was to have been played last Thursday afternoon but was washed out by the heavy downpour of rain that day.

"Not to do any bragging," says Captain LaTour, "but our boys are good and I don't mean maybe. Take it from me those Bridge City smoke eaters will know they have been in a game and you can put that in your pipe and smoke it."

"And those are my sentiments too," said Manager Gillen.

Kaslich A. C. Loses To Woodstock, 4-3

The Woodstock A. C. evened up their series with the Kaslich nine Sunday afternoon at Woodstock, when Paul Misove slugged with two out in the ninth and broke up a spectacular mound duel between Wilbur and Celuch.

The locals were able to garner only five hits off Marlon Wilbur. Eddie Burgevin got two of them with a single in the second and a triple in the seventh. His single in the second drove in a run and he scored in the seventh when Celuch reached first.

The count was knotted at 3 all in the seventh frame and was still the same when Misove came to bat in the ninth. His smack to left field broke up the game.

Climbing Back Toward the Championship

Joe Jacobs

What a merry time Max's manager has been having with the rival promoters who are bidding for Schmeling's services

He squared his accounts with Hamas and Paulino - only the loss to Max Baer remains unavenged!!

Max Schmeling

Has fought himself back into a place among the leading contenders for the title he once held by beating Walter Neusel, Steve Hamas and Paulino Uzcudun in Germany

All Rights Reserved by The Associated Press

No heavyweight champion of the world ever took his title more seriously than did Max Schmeling while he held the crown, nor did any regret losing the honor quite as much as the phlegmatic-looking German lad. So it would not be at all surprising to see him eventually line up with the group which has control of the heavyweight championship—the Madison Square Garden corporation.

More than anything else in the world Max wants to regain the precious title. Only that ambition brought him back to the ring after his crushing defeat at the dynamite-fists of Max Baer. And the only reason his wife, a famous German movie actress, gave her consent to continued campaigning in the ring was that she, like Max, felt that some day he would win back the championship.

In addition to serving as a possible step toward his goal—a title match with Jimmy Braddock—Schmeling's contest with Max Baer would offer him an excellent opportunity to square accounts with the clowning former champion.

Had Edge In Boxing

The way things shape up the German case is indeed, far from hopeless. Many who saw the first battle of the Maxes on that blistering hot June night two years ago are anything but convinced that Baer would be a certain winner in a return bout. On that occasion Baer did not look like a probable winner in the first eight rounds. It was not until he landed his crushing right on Schmeling's jaw that the picture suddenly became all Baer. Up until that time Schmeling had an edge in boxing even though he appeared sluggish and off form.

After the disappointing showing of Baer in his bout with Braddock it is quite likely that Schmeling might enter the ring a favorite over Baer. It is a question whether Baer can nurse his injured hands back into perfect shape in time to train for a September bout. The questionable condition of his hands, especially in Baer's case where he depends so completely on his punch to win, is not likely to instill much confidence in his supporters.

If Schmeling manages to get past Baer he would be faced with the most glorious opportunity ever offered a former heavyweight champion attempting to regain his former laurels. With all due respect to Jimmy Braddock, the general opinion is that he is unlikely to be successful in defending his title against the first top-notch heavyweight he faces. Schmeling, with his plodding, persistent attack is exactly the type of boxer to give Braddock the most trouble.

Huron Indians Edge Out U. P. A. by 3-2

The Huron Indians chalked up their 14th victory of the season yesterday afternoon at Kristie Field, Rondale, when they edged out a win over the Kingston U. P. A. by 3-2.

Ben Lierre was tossing them over for the tribe and allowed the heavy hitting visitors but eight hits.

The U. P. A. took the lead, 2-1, at the end of the third frame but from there on Ben hurled shutout ball while his mates touched Ken Williams for 11 bingles. Don Kelly led the attack with a triple and single.

Next Sunday the Indians are scheduled to cross bats with the Wilbur Dodgers.

Wallkill Prison, Pine Bush Win

The regular prison team of Wallkill defeated the Rockland State Hospital A. A. team from Orangeburgh, N. Y., Sunday, by a score of 13-7. The boys from the prison went to bat in their half of the sixth frame trailing by a margin of seven runs and came through the inning with a lead of one run. The eight runs were tallied after two men had been put out and were the result of the hits, three walks and a hit batter. Triples by O'Neill and Anker added considerably to the onslaught. The visitors had what looked like a comfortable lead until that eventful "Bing" O'Neill, the venerable old cent of the mound, handled the hospital at will for the rest of the frame and for a little exercise 13 runs were smacked another triple in the eighth and added another tally for his side.

A home run with the bases full caused this rare sight in the Boston Red Sox-Philadelphia Athletics game at Philadelphia. Pitcher Bob Grove (at rear of line), cracked the homer, scoring (from front to back), R. Farrell, Werber, and Dahlgren for Boston. But the Sox lost—7 to 6 in 15 innings. (Associated Press Photo)

The Comely Kompa Gals

The Misses Elizabeth (left) and Erna Kompa, 20 and 21-year-old sisters, respectively, of Brooklyn, would be welcome enough additions to any women's swimming festival—as you can readily guess—even if they weren't topnotch paddlers. Both are backstroke stars. Elizabeth won the national women's backstroke championship at 220 yards with Erna in second place, both shutting out the defending champion, Alice Bridges. And Erna swam the dorsal section of the relay wherein the Women's Swimming Association team won the titular 500-meters medley.

Left-Hook Ace Of Sullivan's Day Guides Son In Bid For Ring Fame

San Francisco (AP)—Dai Hawkins, left-hook artist of his day who fought his way to fame in an era crowded with the activities of the Sullivans, Corbitts and Firstmonses, is retired to the more peaceful role of boxing fan but a sturdy son hopes to carry the family name to new writing laurels.

Frankie Hawkins, welterweight, may never reach the heights his father did but if he hears out the old axiom "like father, like son," the pugilistic world will have a new phenomenon of the one-punch variety.

Dai Hawkins, bantamweight, feather and lightweight in turn, did not wear the toke of a champion during his career but he earned the distinction of being one of the most service punches of his time. In most of the 100-odd battles he fought he had his opponent on the canvas.

His first fight was in 1884 in San Francisco, with Freddie Hogan. They took two nights to settle the bout, 73 rounds the first and 16 the next, when Hogan won on a technical knockout. The winner got $50, the loser $25. They wore two-ounce gloves.

Fighting a preliminary on the 1887 Carson City fight when Bob Fitzsimmons won the heavyweight crown from James J. Corbett, Hawkins knocked out Martin Flanagan in four seconds, the first round. He fought the same 13-rounder winning the first and losing the open bid.

England Wins The Doubles And Keeps Coveted Davis Cup

Wimbledon, Eng., July 29 (AP)—The first six games of the fourth England won the coveted Davis Cup emblematic of the world's tennis supremacy—for the third straight time today when the new doubles combination of George Patrick Hughes and C. R. D. Tuckey defeated the American pair of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, 6-2, 1-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-1, in the challenge round doubles match. The victory gave England the necessary third win in the five match series.

The Britons' victory was the final crushing blow to America's hopes of recapturing the cup lost to France in 1927. The first blow was delivered Saturday when H. W. (Bunny) Austin pulled out a five-set victory over Allison in a singles match in which the veteran Texan was favored.

England then won the celebrated Fred J. Perry tournament and the young and formidable Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., in four sets, which saw the Pacific coast phenom force the world's amateur champion to play his best game at times.

The veteran team of Allison and Van Ryn, winners of the all-England doubles title in the past, was highly favored to take Hughes and Tuckey mainly because the Britons had never played together before in cup competition.

Tuckey, the newcomer to international tennis, displayed a booming serve that proved a perfect complement to his partner's fine forecourt game and they raced through the first set as Van Ryn weakly hit many easy shots into the net.

After that shaky display the Americans settled down and played brilliant tennis in the second and third sets, serving and volleying beautifully.

Trailing 0-3 and then 3-5, the Americans broke Hughes in the deuced ninth game of the third set and then Allison held his delivery in the tenth to square the match. The next two games saw both sides hold service and then the Americans tore through their rivals' defense to win the set, sweeping the next two games.

the Britons who stood at the net and revelled in it, especially Tuckey. The crowd went wild after Allison's final abortive serve in the last tossed cushions into the air and yelled like Indians.

Allison and Van Ryn paused long enough only to shake hands with their victors and then walked off the court slowly and dejectedly followed by the equally downcast non-playing Captain Joseph Wear of Philadelphia.

Calles Loses for Governor.

Mexico City, July 29—Plutarco Elias Calles, Jr., son of the former president and "strong man of Mexico," was declared the loser today in his contest for the governorship of the state of Nuevo Leon. General Fortunato Zuazua carried the election by a margin estimated at 10 to 1 and observers interpreted it to mean the loss of nominal control of another state for General Calles, who withdrew from the political scene recently after a dispute with President Lazaro Cardenas.

The Freeman is Received With Welcoming Outstretched Arms Into 9,444 Homes Daily

Every merchant and general advertiser cannot help but consider lineage in The Freeman a genuine investment; for it is a newspaper which readers look forward to receiving every day; a paper which readers pay for, by subscription; a paper which they are glad to get, every afternoon. More than mere printed matter, The Freeman brings to every family things every member WANTS TO READ, WANTS TO KNOW, and is a highly respected medium which isn't cast aside until the last word has been read—interesting things clipped out, every ad carefully gone through so that every family need may be satisfied.

EXTRA!

The Freeman Hurdles the Proverbial Waste-Basket

It is true that there are other advertising mediums, and maybe they seem "cheaper" but in the long run they prove costly beyond measure. They are circulars or throwaways, casually left at doorsteps, and more likely to be kicked aside or swept away, than to be picked up and read, even fleetingly. These "publications" come out irregularly, and get no more respect than the door-to-door salesman to whom nine out of ten housewives won't even open their doors. The Freeman isn't even a distant relation of these cast-aways! It is bought, paid for, and read every day of every week, from cover to cover—with avid interest.

EXTRA!

The Freeman IS A PROFITABLE ADVERTISING

MEDIUM Because

It reaches every member of the family. Junior wants the comics first. Dad wants that sporting page. Su grabs the fashion sheet. And trust Mom to consult the women's page for education, information, and new methods for home-efficiency. Yesir — The Freeman must be profitable, because everyone who reads the news reads the ads — and that's the most important step toward BUYING.

The Freeman HAS GUARANTEED CIRCULATION OF

(9,444) Because

The Freeman is bought on subscription to the full extent of that circulation — and many are the instances in which Dad buys an extra copy at the newsstand, to have in his office. The Freeman gives a lot for the $7.50 it costs a year in the city; $5.00 a year by mail, and not the least of what it gives is a dependable Buying Guide to every member of the family through the advertising it carries.

The Freeman IS WELCOME INTO THE HOME

Because

Its editorial policy is highly regarded. Intelligent in controversy, it offers a real opportunity for the whole family to get together and discuss important happenings locally, and all over the world. And every advertiser knows that a paper whose editorial policy is generally admired is a paper in which it pays to advertise generously . . . and regularly.

Race Against Sun-
For Wheat Crop

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—Farmers of the midwest and all the hired hands they could get raced against the sun today for the 1935 wheat crop

In hot, stifling, dazzling-bright daylight hours they bent every effort to cutting the grain before high temperatures ripened it too much.
At night flickering lights picked out the shadows of men and women and machines working "straight through."

Unusual weather conditions, a long period of dampness followed by extremely hot weather, brought on a jam which called for all the power the farm belt could muster, in both men and feline.
The grain ripened suddenly, and continued hot weather meant the crop would "shatter"—the heads of the wheat would spread and the bare kernels tumble to the ground—unless it was harvested quickly.

Men were needed and without delay. The annual transient harvest gangs of experienced men weren't sufficient. Relief officials responded by shutting down relief projects with an ultimatum of "No work, no food."

The flow of men to the fields began immediately in one South Dakota county 400 of 500 men cut from relief work joined harvest crews. In instances where farmers lacked money to pay the hands, the Federal Emergency Administration
lent funds.

Even with this help, however, the shortage today was still acute in some places. In Iowa, where enough help couldn't be found, women went to the fields to help their husbands. Children old enough to be of use were enlisted. Younger ones took over many of their mother's duties cooking huge quantities of food for the workers.

HIGH FLYING FRENCH ACES
WEAR NEW "DIVING SUITS"

Paris (AP)—France's military aviators will be equipped with aerial "diving suits" for high altitude flights.

Commandant Rosensthiel, a navy physician, has constructed a suit designed to resist temperatures as low as 76 degrees below zero. It has been tested at a theoretical height of more than 50,000 feet.

The helmet is made of an aluminum alloy and the suit of processed canvas. A motor-driven compressor supplies oxygen. Claws, worked by the pilot's hands inside the suit, assure control of the plane.

"College" for G-Men
Welcomes Policemen

Washington, July 29 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of justice department agents, today welcomed 21 policemen to the Bureau of Investigation's anti-crime "college."

Officers from state constabularies, metropolitan departments and city units in various parts of the country gathered to enroll in the federal government's first intensive training school for policemen.

Set up beside the "G Men's" own training school, the three-months' police school will be taught by the same instructors who train the federal agents.

Hoover called the school the first large-scale effort to coordinate the work of city, county, state and federal law-enforcement agencies, and a major step in the march against crime.

Lawyers, doctors, scientists, engineers, police experts—and even a fireman—will give lectures. The pupils will be instructed in everything from making out reports to investigating arson.

Most of the work will be done in the justice department's air conditioned building, but courses in firearms and ballistics will take the officers to Quantico, Va., for practice on the marine rifle range.

Sharp-shooting will be a special subject, with a full week set aside for practice in firing from moving vehicles, firing at moving targets, silhouettes and bobbing targets and in using defensive equipment, night flares and tear-gas.

The "students" come "by invitation," and the schooling is furnished by the government. The anti-crime college is an outgrowth of the Atorney General's conference on crime last winter.

CHIMNEY ROCK SECTION
DEPICTED BY WRITERS

Cliffside, S. C. (AP)—The Chimney Rock region of South Carolina has been used as a background for a number of literary creations.

Mrs. A. Penderton, author of several short stories under the pen name of "Rheta Van Houston," wrote a story in which the plot was laid in that section. Harriet Comstock, author of "Joyce of the North Woods" and other popular novels, depicts certain parts of the Chimney Rock area in one of her books.
"How Zack Came to College," a book by Prof. John G. Clinkscales, tells the story of a boy of the Chimney Rock section just after the Civil war.
"Esmeralda," a drama of mountain life at Chimney Rock, written by Mrs. Francis Hodgson Burnette, had a successful run in New York and other large cities. An artist painted a mountain girl here and exhibited it with the play as the original "Esmeralda."

Blow To Schultz

Several severe legal blows were dealt Dutch Schultz by Margaret Scholl (above), at Schultz's income tax trial at Malone, N. Y. Miss Scholl, former stenographer for the New York beer seller, identified the famous "black ledger" as a book of financial records. (Associated Press

Up to the Parents
"Unruly children are worthy of closattention," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "They let you know precisely what their parents think of you."

SKILLED BRITISH WORKERS
CLING TO AMERICAN TIES

London (AP)—The government has found that the number of British citizens who went to the United States after the war and now want to return is inconsequential.

The question came up in parliament when a member asked Ernest Brown, minister of labor, if there was statutory authority to pay for repatriation of skilled British workmen.

"I have made inquiries as to the number of applications in recent months," the minister replied, "and I do not find it bears out the description 'large number.'"

vation Department, 65 John street trapping and fishing licenses may obtain a copy by calling at the office.

A good cigarette, too

And that's why the tobaccos in Chesterfield are carefully balanced one against the other... not too much of one—not too little of another.

We take the right amounts of the right kinds of four types of tobacco—Bright, Burley, Maryland

It is this balancing of tobaccos that makes Chesterfields milder and makes them taste better.
